

Solutions Development

Solution Development vertical was set-up with the aim of operationalizing AHLBS's belief that 'Innovation' is the key to gaining competitive advantage while sustaining the vision of the business.

Our approach of critically analyzing the business, developing and offering technologically advanced, re-engineered business systems solutions will enable our customers to enhance their operational efficiencies, as we are focused in introducing unique solutions through continuous research into industry trends and developments. The combination of software and industry experience, process and technology expertise as well as R&D knowledge helps reduce implementation time and risk for our customers. The Team consciously keeps track of new developments in the IT industry to offer its customers the most efficient products and services.

One success story is the innovation, design and implementation of an electronic data capturing device for the field activities of Goodhope Group's Oil Palm Plantations segment based in Indonesia. The device named 'Oil Palm Field Operations (OPFO)' electronically records the on-the-field activities carried out in the plantations which until early 2013 was done manually. The OPFO is able to record the diverse activities carried out in the plantations such as recording planting, upkeep and field maintenance, fertilization routine, agronomy audits, EHS field audits and harvesting activities, while also maintaining a daily attendance record of field workers. The redundancy in manual recording has freed up significant time for field supervisors to now concentrate on their core activities and also reduced the errors faced with the manual recording of data and the resultant delays in updating the MIS.

Innovative Product Development

We at AHLBS understand that innovation and product development is one of the biggest challenges in running a successful company. New products are researched and introduced to make company operations easier. We help our customers to come out with innovative ideas while creating sustainable costs and capital efficiencies.

Customized Solutions

Invention is not always the key at AHLBS. Here at AHLBS we love to innovate products that are already in existence and customize them to suit your requirements for use in any specific industry or operation with great success.
